2026 HRVI International Conference

Theme: HRV in Action: Enhancing Health & Peak Performance

Renaissance Downtown Reno Hotel and The Discovery Museum
Reno, Nevada | November 17 and 18, 2026

About the Conference

The Heart Rate Variability Institute (HRVI) invites partners and vendors to join us for the 2026 HRVI International Conference, “HRV in Action: Enhancing Health and Peak Performance.” Taking place this November in Reno, Nevada. The event brings together leading researchers, clinicians, technologists, and performance professionals to explore how HRV is advancing health, resilience, and human performance.

This year’s conference theme, “HRV in Action: Enhancing Health and Peak Performance Outcomes,” showcases the practical, real-world impact of heart rate variability across clinical, educational, and performance settings. Our 2026 program emphasizes evidence-based strategies that support autonomic nervous system regulation, health resilience, and optimal functioning. Through hands-on demonstrations, applied research, and interdisciplinary presentations, attendees will explore how HRV tools and techniques can meaningfully improve health outcomes and elevate human performance.

Why Sponsor HRVI?

Sponsoring HRVI provides direct access to a fast-growing, cross-disciplinary audience actively applying HRV in clinical practice, performance optimization, and emerging technologies. This is an opportunity to build meaningful relationships, demonstrate your solutions, and position your brand at the forefront of a rapidly expanding field.
